

Sheila Marshall

Terry Fox Secondary School with Vancouver Aquarium:

Career Discovery & Community Partnerships

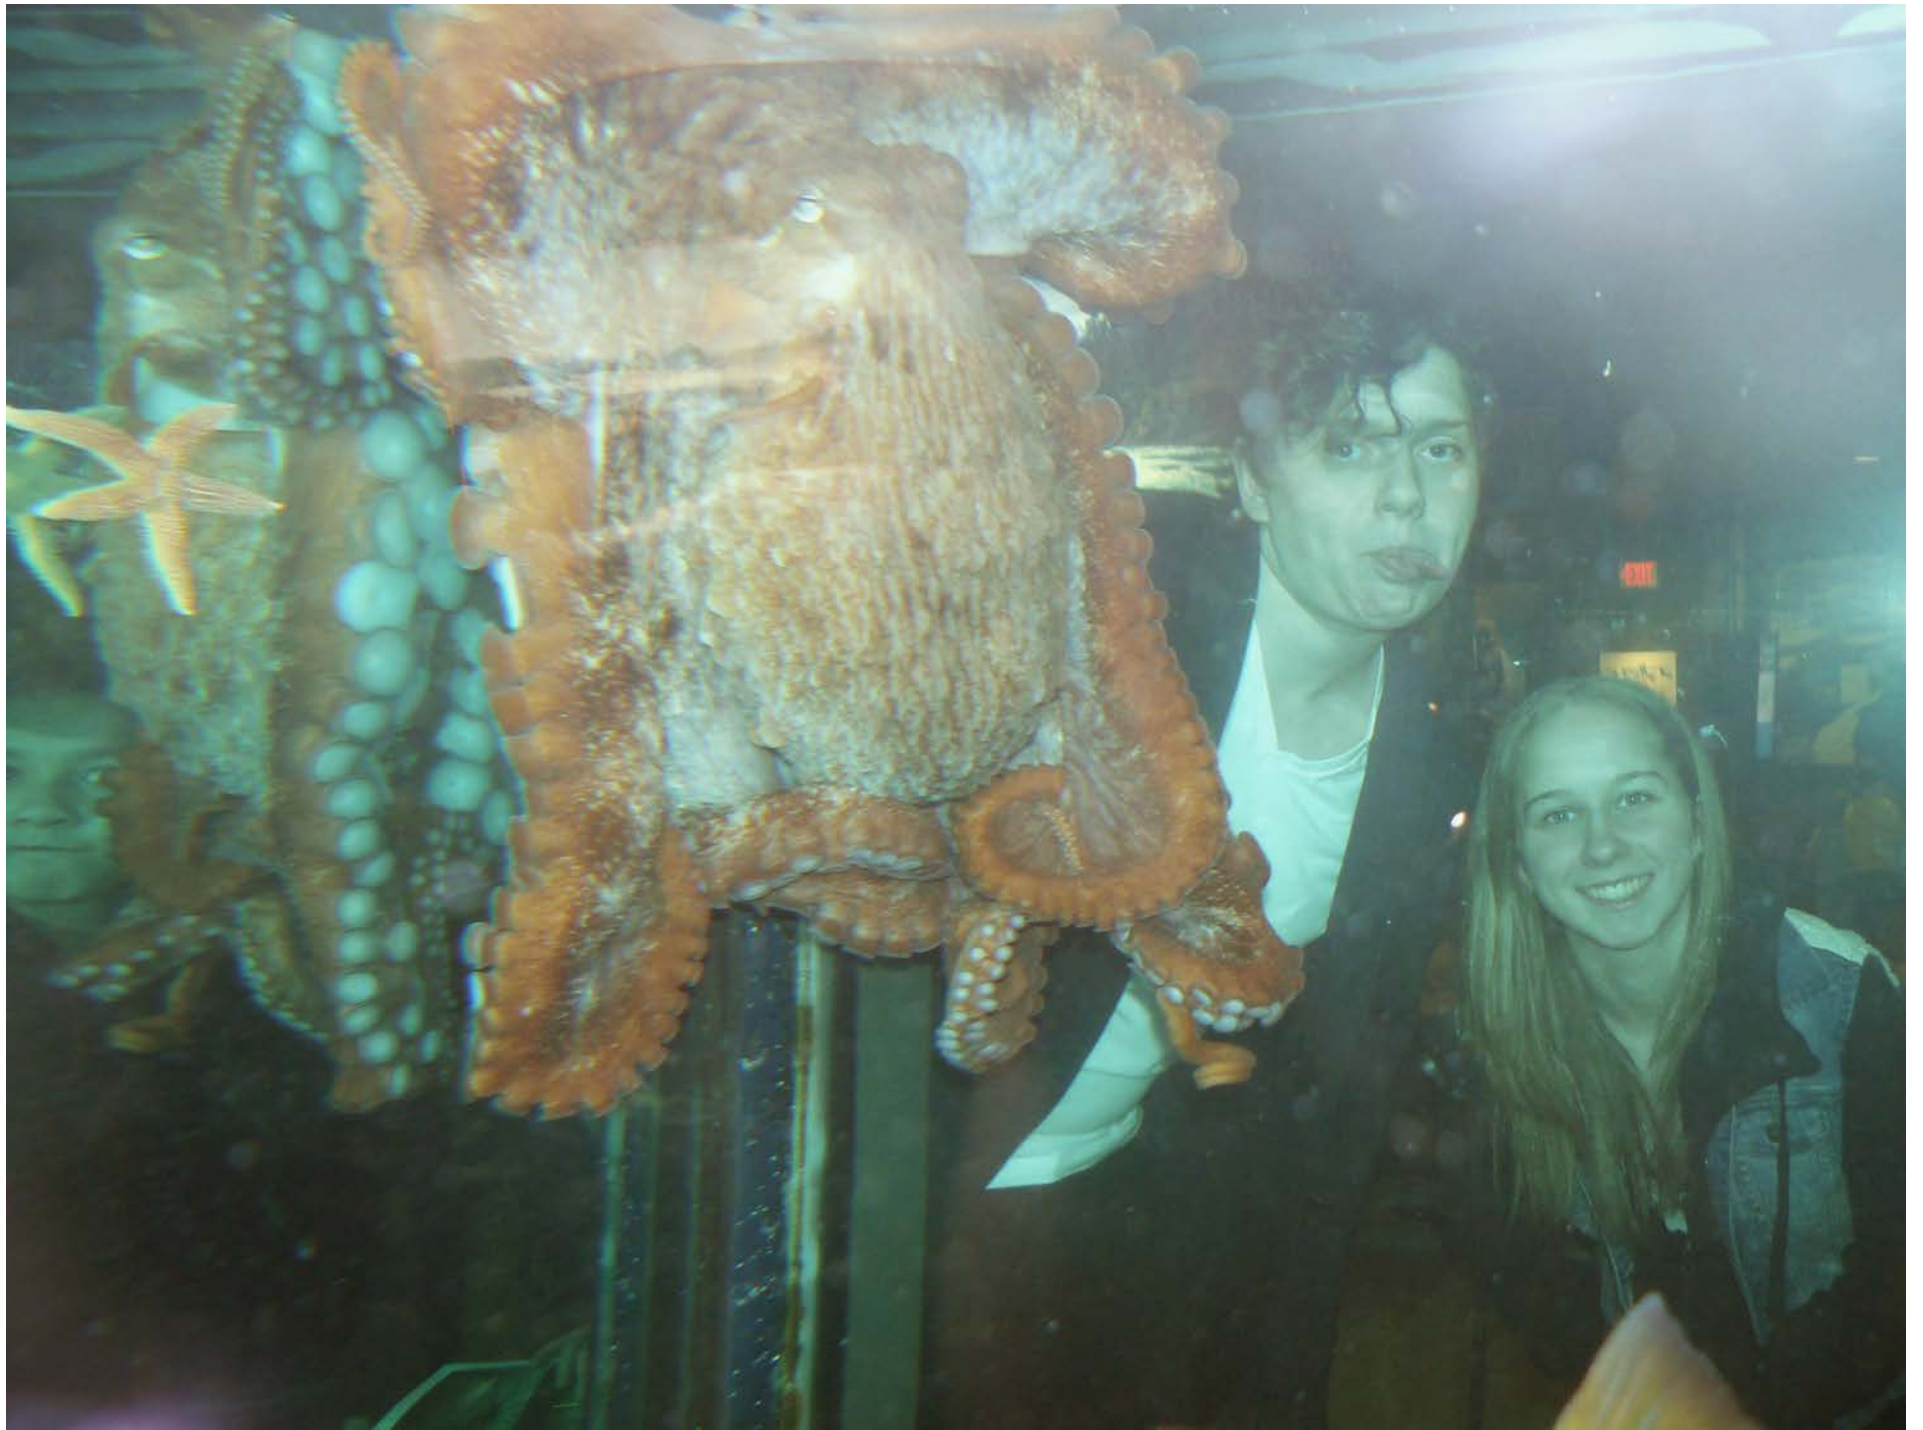

& RAYS

OPEN to find a skeleton
in the closet

THE ONLY BONES IN A SHARK'S BODY

Sharks, snakes, rays
and catfish are all related

Shark Facts

WOODCAP LIMPET
These limpets are found on the rocky shore of the Pacific Northwest. They are able to move over rocks and other hard surfaces. They are also able to move over soft surfaces like seaweed and algae.

SEAWEEED
Seaweed is a type of algae that grows in the ocean. It is found in shallow water and is used for many purposes. Some people use seaweed as a food source, while others use it for medicine.

PURPLE SEA URCHIN
Purple sea urchins are found in the Pacific Northwest. They are able to move over rocks and other hard surfaces. They are also able to move over soft surfaces like seaweed and algae.

BAT STAR
Bat stars are found in the Pacific Northwest. They are able to move over rocks and other hard surfaces. They are also able to move over soft surfaces like seaweed and algae.

BLOOD STAR
Blood stars are found in the Pacific Northwest. They are able to move over rocks and other hard surfaces. They are also able to move over soft surfaces like seaweed and algae.

How is a Rockfish?

AT E!

